Using the Wellesley Trails Online Map

The Wellesley GIS Department and Trails Committee have created a website to help you navigate Wellesley's trails both on your computer and on your phone.

To use the site, just follow the instructions below:

1. Open your web browser and navigate to https://www.mapsonline.net/wellesleyma/trails.html

2. In the top left corner of the screen you will see your 2 map tabs: Layers and Find.

   a. Tap or click these buttons once to open the menu and then again to close the menu.

   b. On the Layers tab, you can turn on and off certain map layers such as Points of Interest or Open Space

   c. On the Find tab, you can use Quick Zooms to find a point of interest or Find Properties using the address.

3. For phones, at the bottom of the screen you will see your 3 navigation tools: Find, Zoom, and Follow. Make sure your phone's GPS is enabled to use these tools.

   a. Tapping the Find tool will pan the map to center your current location on the screen. You will also see a blue dot that represents your location.

   b. Tapping the Zoom tool will zoom the map in to your current location.

   c. Tapping the Follow tool will make the map track your location as you walk along the trails.

Using this map relies on your phone's GPS location; it may not always accurately identify where you are. If you discover a problem on the trail (downed trees, erosion, etc.), please take a screenshot of your location and email it to trails@wellesleyma.gov. Make sure to describe the issue!
