Wellesley Launches New Coronavirus Information Hub

April 3, 2020 (Wellesley, MA) – The Town of Wellesley today launched a new Coronavirus information site for all COVID-19 communications to the Wellesley community during the remainder of the global pandemic. The Coronavirus Information Hub is the central source for all official Town information and is dedicated to providing up-to-date messages, current data, and comprehensive resources to support residents and businesses.

The Hub will include links to the COVID-19 briefings from Town officials, information and answers to frequently asked questions provided by the Wellesley Health Department, and links to social media and online tools. Under the Wellesley Will Be Well initiative, the Hub will also include detailed information and links to key community support services such as financial, mental health and senior citizen resources, local and State guidance, and learning opportunities and virtual activities to engage children and families.

Information and COVID-19 data from the State and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) are also provided and updated daily. New features to the Hub may be added as the crisis continues. Residents and users are encouraged to share feedback on additional information they would like to see on the Hub.

In an effort to reach residents across multiple platforms, the Town is also activating its official social media sites with postings of COVID-19 briefings and additional information about Town operations and the response to this crisis. Find us on Facebook at Town of Wellesley, MA (<https://www.facebook.com/TownOfWellesley/>) and follow us on Twitter @TownOfWellesley (<https://twitter.com/TownOfWellesley>).

To access the new Coronavirus Information Hub, go to www.wellesleyma.gov/coronavirus or visit the Town of Wellesley website at www.wellesleyma.gov and click on the red Coronavirus Information bar.

Town officials, departments and staff are working tirelessly to make sure our community has access to accurate, trusted information about Coronavirus. We appreciate the work of all residents to stay home, stay healthy, and help stop the spread of COVID-19. Together we will get through this unprecedented time.
